<about />

My work experience over the years has taken me from hospitality to retail. Along the way, my interest in science lead me to learn more about enzymes and working in a laboratory.

Late 2020 I started a shift in my career to become a Fullstack Developer and chase a dream that began in high school years, where I first came into contact with programming.

Having completed the Frontend learning cycle of my training, I am currently open to an opportunity in Frontend development.

I am an open minded person, with a growth mindset and eager to learn more, who enjoys working in collaborative environments.
